Mr. Howe said that Thorn had been co fined in the Tombs on a warrant issued by a city Magistrate, and that an indictment has been found while the examination was pending in the Magistrate's court. This indictment, he said, was a mass of confusion from beginning to end, as the alleged offence had been committed outside the jurisdiction of the county, in the county of Queens,

"That point is touched on in the demurrer to be argued in a few days before the Court of General Sessions," interrupted Assistant District Attorney Mitchell.

Mr. Howe paid no attention to the interruption, but proceeded to show by various authori-ties that the Supreme Court had the power to fix bail in Thorn's case, and that the presiding Justice of that court should be permitted to read the Grand Jury minutes.

"The District Attorney's office has refused to let us have the testimony on which Thorn was indicted," said Mr. Howe, "and consequently we do not know what we have to meet or or what lines to construct our defence. They cannot conceal the minutes from you, a Justice of the Supreme Court, however. As a matter of fact the testimony against Thorn is the property of the people and should be made public. I ask you, Justice Truax, to remand my client to the custody of the Sheriir of Ouecns county.

is the property of the people and anould be made public. I ask you, Justice Truax, to remand my client to the custody of the Sheriff of Queens county.

Mr. Howe here read the indictment against Thorn, remarking sarcastically: "Oh, but this is a teen that ought to be preserved. It says the crime was committed partly in this city and partly in Queens county. What part, I should like to inquire, was committed herel-how can a murder be committed in two places? In the case of an abortion, it might be so. The prescription might be given in one city and the operation performed in another, or a manight fire a gun from this city over the East River and kill a man in Brooklyn. This could not apply, however, in the case of Gieldsenspipe, and to cover the section of the Penal Code giving the court the right to try a case in either of two counties, some part of the act must be committed in both counties."

Mr. Mitchell made a very sharp argument, When he rose to speak, Justice Truax asked him whether a man who made up his mind in this city to kill a man in Brooklyn, could be tried in either county. Mr. Mitchell evaded the question, replying that this case was somewhat different. It was a case of conspiracy, the held that the court had no right to fix ball in Thorn's case.

Mr. Mowe rose again at this point and, shaking a paper over his lead, said: "This indictinent isn't worth the paper it's written on. I defy any one to point out one overt act committed in this city that this indictinent covers."

Mr. Mitchell asked permission to file a brief in the case, and it was granted. The room was then cleared and Thorn was taken back to the Tonbs. Justice Truax will make known his derision on Monday. The general impression is that the application will not be granted. If Thorn is admitted to ball and his case is sent to Queens county, Mr. Howe will be rid of his subjancent. He was assigned by the court to defend Thorn, who is destitute and unable to his case.

In preparing the case against Thorn and Mrs. Nack. Bistrict Attorney Olcott had the water meter in the house at 346 Second street, Woodside, L. L. read. It is alleged that Geidschesuppe's body was cut up in the bathtub of the house, and that the water was allowed to run for hours to wash away the evidence of the crime. The meter showed that 40,000 gallons of water had been used in the house in the six weeks/previous to the examination, during which time the house was occupied only by "Mr. and Mrs. Hraun," who have been identified as Thorn and Mrs. Nack.

Carl Mirich, the promistor of a barber shop at 396 Eleventh avenue, called upon the District Attorney yesterday and made an affidavit which Mr. Oleott believes will break down Thorn's statement to Acting Inspector O'Brien that he was in Mirich's shop on the day of the marder. Merich produced a letter written by Thorn to him on July 6. In the letter Thorn bers Mirich to shield him. He says:

"Do not forget that I was at your shop on Friday, June 25, and that you sent me for a bottle of shempon, and that I got the same and returned with it and remained there all day until 7 o'clock in the evening, when I left. Also state that I was playing I moothe with you from 3 o'clock until 7 o'clock. Don't forget this. It is important to me, as they are trying to entang e me in a murder.

Mirich made affidavit that Thorn was not in the shop on Friday, and that he did not send him on an errand or play cards with him. A saloos keeper whose place is next door to the barber shop makes affidavit corroborating Mirich. The saloon keeper visited the Tombs prison yesterday and identified Thorn.

RROOKLYN'S SMOKE NUISANCE.

The Health Board Sucs the Yassau Railroad Company, Which Maintains It.

The burning of soft coal by the Nassau Electric Railroad Company of Brooklyn in its power house at Second avenue and Fortieth street caused an action to be brought yesterday by the Health Department in the Second District Civil Court against the company, with a view of having the nuisance abated. For several weeks complaints have been made to the Health Commissioner by persons living in the neighborhood of the power house. It was stated that washed clothes hung out to dry were made black by the smoke from the power house chimney and that it was also impracticable to keep windows open for any length of time. Health Commissioner Emery, in speaking yesterday of his action in for any length of time. Health Commissioner Emery, in speaking yesterday of his action in the case, said:

"The railroad company claims that it is about to instal smoke-consuming devices at its power houses, and that it is compelled to use bituminous coal in order to get aufficient heat with which to operate its plant. An inspection by an engineer and a chemist from the Department of Health, made on July 15, 1897, at the two power houses, showed that the smoke-consuming device was already in operation at the Thirty-ninth street station, but that the smoke nuisance continued. At the First street station chemicals were being placed upon the coal, which were being used for the purpose, as was stated by the employees, of securing a more efficient combustion of the coal and a lessening of the smoke, but here again the device was apparently ineffectual, as the smoke continued. In a conference had on July 15. Mr. Yonge, counsel for the railroad company, stated that it was the intention of his clients to continue the experiments with smoke-consuming devices for the purpose of lessening the evil, and that he believed it could be successfully done."

O'KEEFE AND HERLIHY SWAP JOBS.

"Police Reasons" the Alleged Cause-Was the Clarendon Hall "Silly Dinner" the Real One ! Police Captains O'Keefe of the Fifth street station and Herlihy of the Delancey street squad got orders on Thursday night to change places. They went on duty in their new stations yesterday morning. At Headquarters "police reawas the only explanation advanced. O'Keefe, who was deposed from the Acting Inspectorship some months ago, incurred as Capspectorship some months ago, incurred as Cap-tain in Fifth street the displeasure of President Moss for failing to deal sharply with the Claren-don Hall "Silly Dinner" show.

It was thought by some that this was behind the transfer, but there is no proof that Mr. Moss even knew of it. It is certain that the Chief has lately shown signs of being much worried over the attitude of Mr. Moss, who seems to know of more mischlef and disorder hiding in town than the Chief and all his Captains pretend ever to have heard of.

ONE-EYED MAN'S FIGHT WITH COPS.

He, His Wife, and Their Pais Be Up One-Tw Policeman Joseph C. Kelly of the East Thirty fifth street station and Bernard Hudson, a part ly blind ex-convict, were both well battered as a result of a fight in the basement at 212 East Twenty-eighth street at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Two of Kelly's teeth were knocked out, his lip was cut, and his head was badly bruised. Hudson, who has only one good eye, but has a reputation as a scrapper, had his head in bandages. A surgeon had used foureen stitches to close a long gash in his scalp. The policeman said in court that he had had battle for his life. While he was on post, he said, he heard a woman's screams in the Twenty-eighth street basement. Going in there he found Hudson beating his wife. When he tried to arrest him Hudson turned and struck him. Mrs. Hudson grabbed him around the body, holding down his arms, and Hudso selzed his night stick and struck him on the head, knocking off his helmet. As he broke seizod bis night stick and struck him on the head, knocking off his helmet. As he broke away from the woman, four other men, who had come into the room, pitched upon him and he was thrown to the floor upon his back.

Hudson sat upon him, and, as he tried to draw his revolver, the other men held his arms. If udson, he said, pulled out a pistol and thrust the muszle into his mouth, cutting his lip and breaking off two teeth.

A number of people had collected outside the basement door, and Policemen Ticho and Crahn, seeing them, went to the place. They pulled hudson off kelly and, after a struggle, nandcuffed the one-eyed man and took him to the station. All of the policemen denied that they had clubbed Hudson, and declared that he got his injury by falling against a sewing macnine during the fight.

Policeman Kelly began his complaint in court by saying that the prisoner's photograph was in the Rogues' Galiery at Police Headquarters.

"That don't make any difference," it retrupted Magistrate Crane. "Many an honest man's picture is in that gallery. Anyhow, you have no right to keep throwing it in a man's face about his photograph being there. Suppose a man went wrong once, don't you think it is possible for him to reform?"

The Magistrate, after reading the affidavit, said:

"This is a serious matter. Here is a blind man severely used. I want to know all about it, and shall adjourn the examination until Monday so as to get all the facts in the matter. I will hold the prisoner for felonious assauit."

Hudson was locked up. His wife, who was in court, bore marks on her face that seemed to show that she had been in a recent fight, as Kelly set forth. She did not testify, but she told the court attendants that Kelly was drunk when he entered, the basement, and that his cinb was taken from him because he threatened to least her husband. She said her husband did not attack Kelly first.

Hudson is a beggar by occupation. The police say he lost his eye during a fight about four years ago when he lived in East Twenty-secon

It is said that President Sheffield and Chief Bonner had a consultation some time ago and tried to devise some plan by which women could be kept away from the firehouses. Complaints kept coming in from people living near firehouses. None of the complaints charged either the men or the women with improper conduct, or with doing anything but standing around and talking, but the neighbors didn't like it and sent in their criticisms to Fire Headquarters.

Commissioner Le Grange, who is Chairman of the Committee on the Uniformed Force, was not consulted about the transfers, and was as much surprised as anybody cless. He inquired why the wholesale transfer was made, and was informed that it had been done "for the good of the ser-that it had been done for the good of vice."

Now the shopkeepers in the neighborhood of Engine House 21 have got up a petition and sent it to President Sheffleld, asking that Capt. Eagan and his men be sent back to their old nost. Almost everybody in the neighborhood has signed the petition, but so far Mr. Sheffleld has not responded to it. There is not much chance of his putting the men back.

CORNETIST LEONARD'S BLAST.

t Caused Consternation, but May Have Save Some Lives in a Brooklyn Fire.

Shortly after Cornetist John Leonard had returned to his apartments on the top floor of the four-story double flat house in Thirty-seventh street and Third avenue, Brooklyn, early yes-terday morning, after a hard night's work in a Island concert hall, he discovered that fire had broken out in the house, and he quickly ocated it at the foot of the dumbwaiter. In stead of starting an alarm in the usual way he blasts through it that even the soundest sleepe in the house was awakened and the whole neigh borhood startled. A policeman on an adjoining beat apparently realized from the peculiar notes beat apparently realized from the peculiar notes that some peril was impending, for he hurried to the house from which they issued. Finding that the house was on fire, he sent in an alarm and then went to the rescue of the occupants, who were pouring down the stairways and scampering down the fire escapes in their night clothes.

There were about thirty persons in the building and all escaped uninjured. Mrs. Larsen, while hurrying downstairs with her two children, picked up her;pet dog and carried it to the second floor, where some one took it from her arms and dropped it into the street. In the confusion the dog disappeared and was not recovered. The building, which is owned by Contractor Charles Hart, was damaged to the extent of $4,000, and the losses of the tenants amounted to $1,200.

Musician Leonard's cornet was damaged beyond repair, but his appreciative neighbors will gladly ship in and buy a new instrument for him. How the fire started is a mystery.

The Brooklyn City Railroad Company's Assess

There was a hearing yesterday before the Brooklyn Assessors on the application of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company to have the $12,000,000 assessment of its capital stock set aside. The company contends that from the gross assets of $29,000,000 the assessors should have deducted $8,000,000 expended in replacing the tracks and equipping the road, $6,000,000 of bonded debt, and $5,000,000 of roal assessment. If the contention is upheld, the company will be entirely relieved from taxation.

BROOKLYN'S LAST BUDGET.

Alderman Joseph R. Clark and some of his associates in the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen are in favor of making a considerable reduction in the budget of 1898 as prepared by the Board of Estimate, so as to reduce the tax rate from $2.90. as estimated, to $2.30 or $2.40. Their view is that next year, when consolidation goes into operation, the deficiencies would be made up by the issue of bonds of the Greater New York Mayor Wurster and Corporation Counsel Burr it should it be brought forward in the Board of Aldermen. Mr. Burr made this statement yesterday:

"It would not be honest on the part of the city of Brooklyn to deliberately fall to provide, as the law requires, its just proportion of the expenses of the greater city, by its tax levy of 1897. Not only would it not be honest, but in the end nothing would be gained by such a course because power is given to the authorities of Greater New York if at the end of 1898 it should appear that Brooklyn had not raised its fair quota of the expenses of the greater city through its tax levy of 1897, to estimate the amount of such deficiency and to add it to the amount that would have to be raised by tax upon the borough such deficiency and to add it to the amount that would have to be raised by tax upon the borough of Brooklyn in the year 1899. So that if some-thing was saved this year the citizens of Brook-lyn, by such a course, in 1899 would have to pay not only their fair proportion of the expenses of the greater city for the year, but would have to pay in addition the deficiencies that arose during pay in addition the deficiencies that arose during 1898 by reason of the failure to raise the proper amount in the tax levy of 1897."

ELECTRICAL HORSE POWER. A Practical Illustration Which Opens the Eye

of Some Brooklynites. Passengers in a Putnam avenue trolley car in Brooklyn on Friday morning saw a practical application of the power of electricity that made them open their eyes wide. One of the city ash carts, loaded nearly to the top, had found a soft place in the mud between the boulders which do for pavement in many of the streets, and both hind whoels had sunk in almost to the hubs. Four powerful horses were attached to the cart, Four powerful horses were attached to the cart, but could not budge it an inch. When the car came along it was concluded to try electricity. A chain with books was used to hitch the wagon to the car. The motorman knew his business; a strong jerk would have torn the cart to pieces; but he turned the current on almost imperceptibly, and though the pull was a diagonal one, the cart being next to the curb, the wagon was drawn out of the hole easily and without a joil. There are a few Brooklynites who understand now what electrical horse power means.

Dr. Carl F. Gisaler, a well-known Brooklyn physician, who lives at 23 Kossuth place, has resigned from several beneficiary orders re ently because he believes there is a movemen on foot to kill him. WASHINGTON, July 16.—Ambrose B. Dewer an old soldier with lanky limbs, tattered clothes and drooping spirits, who claims Canton, O., as his home, knocked a big, strapping man down in the streets of Chicago a few for casting aspersions on the soldier record of President McKinley. Being an "old friend" of the President, Mr. Dewesse thought he ought to communicate with him directly and inform him of the drubbing he gave the Chicago man. So, after running through a saloon and down a dark alley to avoid being captured by the Chi-cago police, Mr. Dewesse made his way to the railroad freight yards, where he fell in with the owners of a lot of cattle that were being shipped East, and they permitted him to ride to Washington as a cattle guard. Mr. Dewesse landed in Washington this morning, and after strolling about the town two hours, started for the White House. He told the guard at the door that he was an old Canton friend of the McKinley family and he would like to see the President. The guard, however, cloud not President. Bill McKinley is an old friend of mine, I always call him Bill and I know he would see me if you would tell him I am at the door. Why, my dear fellow, I knew Bill McKinley twenty-nive years ago, worked with him in the campaign, and spent my time and money to secure his election to Congress against Wallace. Maybe you want to hear something about my work in Bill's behali."

The guard said he was doing nothing just then and didn't mind hearing the story, so the old veteran continued:

"When Bill was a candidate for Congress against Wallace I went into Lawyer Clark's office in Canton one day—you know where Clark's office is, down there just opposite the Court House—and I saw Bill sittin' up there with his feet occked against the window. I says to Bill:

lesidents of West Sixty-fifth Street Say He

Capt. Thomas of the West Sixty-eighth street station is in trouble. Eight residents of West Sixty-fifth street, headed by E. C. Mueller, whose house is at 166, complained recently to Chief Coulin that bad boys from the tenements n Amsterdam and Columbus avenues took pos session of the street; that they yelled like Indians, chalked the stoops, and broke windows. Capt. Thomas said in a reply to the Chief that the block soused the boys with water and that they were just paying him back; that the "wagons" they complained of as running over their sidewalks were soap boxes on wheels, and that the gist of the whole matter was that the Mueller brigade wanted "the children living

Mueller brigade wanted "the children living in the tenements confined thereto. He objected to their congregating in childish play, no matter how well conducted, because it encroached upon the privacy of the block."

This made Mr. Mueller exceeding wroth. He moved upon Mulberry street yesterday with a letter a yard long, in which he met the Captain and metaphorically wiped the floor with him. He specified the wrongs the boys had done, from stealing the front pillar of the porch next door to running off with his own canary bird and dancing naked and grinning on the sidewalk. He said fially that the Captain lied, and hinted that there were worse things in his precinct than bad boys. He and his neighbors would fight for their rights before they made up their minds to move, he wrote.

The City Vigilanco Learue, through which the war of words has been conducted, has taken up the cudgel for Mueller and his flock.

Postmaster Van Cott, in a communication to the Post Office Department at Washington, has suggested that all postal clerks who have been in the service for one year shall receive a salary of $700 a year instead of $600, as at present, and that clerks now receiving $700 shall get $800 a year. the Postmaster urges that it take effect dating from this month.

"I have made this recommendation," Postmaster Van Cott said yesterday, "because I believe the men are entitled to the increase. I believe that a man's salary should be large enough to overlap his expenses. The proposed increase would raise the tone of the service and enhance the efficiency of the men. When a man is easy in his mind about money matters, it leaves his brain clearer and he does better work. I think my suggestion will be favorably acted on."

know the value of appearances. The poorer they are the more they have to consider how to dress and the harder it is for them to dress as they would like. No one need pay more than $15,00 for a suit of thoroughly well made clothes of good materials-even $10.00 will purchase a good business Suit of blue. black or grey serge. The finer grades cost more, of course, but even the lower priced Suits are as correct in cut and fit as the best and not one person in a hundred knows whether your Suit cost you $15.00 or $25.00.

MOTHER TRACKS HER DAUGHTERS. And After Four Years Gets Them and Their Pather Into Court on a Writ.

Three girls, the youngest 14 and the eldest 7 years old, were produced before Justice Trusy of the Supreme Court vesterday by their ather, Carlos A. Lozano, a mechanical engineer, in obedience to a writ of habeas corpus obtained ov their mother, Jeanne Bonnefoy Lozano, who said they had been spirited away by their father five years ago. The mother had not seen the girls for four years, and the father tried to prevent the kissing and hugging that followed between the girls and their mother in court, but he was shoved back by a court

Mrs. Lozano said that Lozano married her when she was a girl of 17 years in Paris. He is a Portuguese, considerably older than she. He was graduated from the Stevens Institute in Hoboken, and, according to the wife, he has a large income. About five years ago the husband and wife separated, after he had put the children in a place unknown to her. She ascertained that they were at a school at Darien. Coon., and she went there on the birthday of their daughter Julietta, and went to bed with the children. About midnight the defendant came there from this city, presuming the mother would be there on the girl's birthday with presents, and made the mother dress at midnight and go alone to the station and wait for a morning train. Soon after the children disappeared again. The mother went from one public school to another in this city acking for children named Lozano, and finally found them at a school in East 128th street. She saw them for a while claudestinely, but the father took them to California, and she lost all trace of them. She learned last week that the father had come East with them and she immediately sued out a writ. She also began an action for separation, alleging descrition and cruelty.

On the return of the writ yesterday she asked permission to see the children two or three times a week until the right to their custody can be finally determined in the action for separation. The father had brought the children down from Connecticut, where he had them summering.

Justice Truax took each of the little girls up dren in a place unknown to her. She ascer

Justice Truax took each of the little girls up on the bench and spoke to them. They said they loved their mother, but the eldest liked her father best, and the youngest wanted to go at once to her mother.

The Judge reserved decision, directing Mr.
Lozano not to remove the children out of the jurisdiction of the court pending his decision.

WINDOW-SHADE DEALERS ROBBED. Two of Their Employees and Two Alleged Roceivers Arrested. Hart 18 years old of 94 Fast Br way, and Charles Wuest, 19 years old, of 232 Monroe street, were charged with grand lar-ceny in Centre Street Court yesterday by W. J. Barnes of the firm of Hunningham & Lindemann, window-shade dealers at 510 Broadway. Max Fishman of 430 Grand street and Herman Rappaport of 124 Attorney street, both dealers window shades, were also arraigned on a charge of being receivers of stolen goods. Hart and Wuest were employed by the firm as shipping clerk and errand boy respectively. It was charged by Barnes that they had systematically robbed the firm of costly shade material, and that the loss amounted to over $2,000. The boys, aid that Rappaport and Fishman induced them to steal and bought fail of the goods from them. They declared that the two men had rented a basement in Attorney street, to which the stolen goods were taken in order that suspicion ruight not be aroused by frequent calls at their stores. When Detectives Summers and Lynch arrested Fishman and Rappaport they, say they found seven rolls of shading valued at $70 in Fishman's place, and three rolls valued at $30 in Rappaport's store. Rappaport and Fishman pleaded not guilty and declared that the story of the boys was false. They said the stolen goods had been bought without their knowledge by their employees. Magistrate Deuel heid all hands for further examination next Weinesday. as shipping clerk and errand boy respectively.
